

The Leicester Friends of the OCHS presents

Theism and Atheism in the Bhagavad-gita

Shaunaka Rishi Das of the
Oxford Centre For Hindu Studies

In recent years a new brand of evangelical atheism has emerged in Britain, and its High Priests are articulate, literate, and media savvy. Coupled with what many religious people see as an increase in the exclusion of religion from public sight and discourse, traditional religion in the UK feels under attack. Where do Hindus stand in this national debate? Although we don't hear much from the Hindu community in the UK we can explore the ideas of theism and atheism, and the rational behind them as discussed by Krishna and Arjuna.

The Oxford Centre for Hindu Studies is an institute for the study of Hindu culture, religion, languages, literature, philosophy, history, arts, and society, in all periods and parts of the world.

Saturday 25th June 2011

Jalaram Community Centre,
Narborough Road,
Leicester LE3 0LF

7.00pm to 9.00pm
followed by refreshments

Email: lf@ochs.org.uk

Web: www.ochs.org.uk

A donation of £3 is requested on admission

A RECOGNISED INDEPENDENT CENTRE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

www.ochs.org.uk

Oxford Centre for Hindu Studies
15 Magdalen Street,
Oxford OX1 3AE
info@ochs.org.uk
Registered Charity No. 1074458