

The Leicester Friends of the OCHS presents

Beyond Multiculturalism:

Learning from Aurobindo's Indian and British identities

Brainerd Prince of the
Oxford Centre For Hindu Studies

Not only are our societies becoming multicultural, but their members are themselves also increasingly products of multicultural societies with multicultural identities. So what does it mean to be multicultural? How do we live together in solidarity with difference? How do we negotiate our identity in a multicultural society? A hundred years ago Aurobindo addressed these very issues as he himself had to negotiate between his own Indian and British identities. What can we learn from him?

The Oxford Centre for Hindu Studies is an institute for the study of Hindu culture, religion, languages, literature, philosophy, history, arts, and society, in all periods and parts of the world.

Saturday 25th August 2012

Belgrave Neighbourhood Centre
Rothley Street Leicester LE4 6LF

6.30pm to 9.00pm

Email: LF@ochs.org.uk

Web: www.ochs.org.uk

A RECOGNISED INDEPENDENT CENTRE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

FRIENDS OF THE
OXFORD CENTRE FOR HINDU STUDIES

LEICESTER

www.ochs.org.uk

Oxford Centre for Hindu Studies
15 Magdalen Street,
Oxford OX1 3AE
info@ochs.org.uk
Registered Charity No. 1074458